The inaugural Johanson and Sheppard sponsored Par three event was held on Saturday with a good field of 61 players testing their iron play around the carefully prepared par three circuit. Many of the tees were placed in areas where many players hit their drives in normal play, so playing from these positions wasn't at all foreign for most players. Lee Heuston showed his class in winning the scratch event with a par round of 54—a remarkable feat when you have to be so accurate all day. Cameron Johanson finished runner up with a 57, a great score after not playing much golf recently. J.Davey won the net event with a remarkable 34 nett, 20 better than his handicap. It was suggested to him that he approaches all games with his irons, leaving the wayward woods out of his bag after such a great effort. S.Hollis' 37 nett score was equally impressive, earning a runner up finish. The net prizes went to ninth place with a 45 (nine better than handicap) indicating a very fruitful and enjoyable day's play for many players. Noel Hughes earned the sharp shooter of the day award, winning two nearest the pins in B Grade. A "Survey Monkey" will be set up on the club's website as soon as possible, asking all players their views for this new event as we will hopefully include this as a regular event each year.
